About Katherine Woodward Thomas, M.A., MFT

Katherine Woodward Thomas, M.A., MFT is the bestselling author of Calling in "The One": 7 Weeks to Attract the Love of Your Life. A licensed psychotherapist in private practice for over ten years, she is also a transformative educator with over fifteen years of teaching experience, and an inspirational speaker who has delivered her message of love to church congregations and community groups throughout the country.

A frequent media guest, Katherine has appeared nationally on The Today Show and The Morning Show with Mike & Juliet, as well as hundreds of local television and radio news and talk shows throughout the country. Her work has been written about in The Los Angeles Times, The Chicago Tribune, Cosmopolitan, Ladies Home Journal, The Augusta Chronicle, Tango Magazine and more.

Katherine is the founding director of The Rosewood Center for the Healing Arts & Lifelong Learning, which is dedicated to the evolution and advancement of loving and harmonious relations between all living beings. She is also on the faculty of Agape International Spiritual Center's University of Transformational Studies and Leadership.

Katherine possesses a deep passion for healing and transformation that began with her own spiritual awakening at the age of 14, and feels privileged to have worked with thousands of people, assisting them to break free of the patterns of their past in order to realize the greatest possibilities for their lives. A highly advanced and perpetual student of the Law of Attraction, Katherine believes that as we begin to deeply embody the change we seek to create in our lives, our circumstances organically shift and realign themselves, bringing us effortlessly toward the full manifestation of our deepest desires.

Inside her personal mission to actively generate and cause greater levels of love and relatedness in the world, Katherine founded the non-profit "In Harmony with the Homeless" in 1992. Through annual songwriting workshops, she brought formerly homeless men and women together with top songwriters to tell their stories of hope and inspiration through music. Some of these events aired nationally on ABC in Concert and, in 1996, she produced an album entitled In Harmony with the Homeless featuring such musical greats as Mavis Staples, Rita Coolidge, Carl Anderson and Ritchie Havens, among others.

Katherine is currently working on her next book, The New Feminine Power, along with her best friend and colleague, Claire Andrea Zammit, Ph.D. (c).
